Volume 6 No. 37 | Canyon, Texas | Sunday, May 16, 1976 | 16 Pages | 15 Cents

First grade goes . . .

Everything from the Statue of Liberty, far left, to a 20th Century astronaut, far right, was in the giant First Grade Parade Friday on the square in Canyon as students from Rex Reeves Elementary School donned costumes from some era in American history to parade under the bicentennial banner. The parade opened the Windows to the Past displays which opened Friday and continued through Saturday. For other pictures see page 15.

No tax hike seen in preliminary county budget

There'll be no new taxes next year for Randall County property owners, if county commissioners stick to a budget to be proposed in tentative form Monday by County Judge Woody Pond and County Auditor Betty Hodges.

Pond said Friday the preliminary budget proposal calls for the tax rate to remain the same for the fiscal year which this year begins Oct. 1.

Even so, he said, the budget includes a special salary increase fund representing the equivalent of a 60 percent hike for each county employee which commissioners may choose to disperse as they wish.

Pond declined to release his preliminary budget figures until the regular commission meeting Monday.

Commissioners voted a 25 percent tax hike last year for the current year county budget.

The annual budget-making procedure for commissioners begins three months early because they voted last fall to change the county's fiscal year from the calendar year to a year beginning in October.

Pond said he hopes commissioners can hold the line on taxes this year, utilizing the growth in property values in the county to offset increases in costs and services in the budget.

"We'll do our utmost," he said.

The preliminary budget was compiled from budget requests submitted by county office-holders, he said.

The current-year budget is 25 percent higher than the 1975 budget of $1.4 million.

This year's budget calls for income and expenditure of $1.76 million.

Figures compiled by Mrs. Hodges to review expenditures for the first quarter of this year indicate county office-holders are holding the line on expenditures.

In the current-year budget, Mrs. Audrey Bruse, county tax collector, was budgeted $263,600 for her office, County Clerk LeRoy Hutton was budgeted $86,900, Judge Pond was budgeted $24,000, Sheriff Cliff Longest was budgeted $283,500, Dist. Clerk LaQuitta Polvadore was budgeted $51,660, the justices of the peace were budgeted $44,000, Mrs. Hodges was budgeted $11,300, County Treasurer Bob McClendon was budgeted $12,500, Dist. Atty. Randy Sherrod was budgeted $96,500 and the road and bridge department was budgeted $362,100.

The judicial function was budgeted $122,000, the extension service was budgeted $20,300, public service function was budgeted $83,800, probation was budgeted $46,300, building operation was budgeted $48,800, and general government was budgeted $26,700.

County employees during January received raises ranging from just over 1 percent to more than 10 percent each. The hikes were not given on an across-the-board basis.

Pond said he has included in the budget proposal for next year only a contingency fund amounting to the equivalent of a 6 percent pay hike for commissioners to allocate on an individual basis to employees.

Other items set for commissioner discussion Monday include:

*The withdrawal of securities for First National Bank in Canyon.

*Convening as a board of equalization.

*Discussion of allowing military credit for employees in the county retirement system.

*An executive session to discuss personnel.

The commissioners meet at 1 p.m. in the commissioner courtroom on the second floor of the north wing of the Canyon courthouse.

32 degrees F.?

With the metric system becoming more a reality every day, the First National Bank of Canyon is the first to introduce the Celsius measure for temperature on their new "time and temperature" sign out front.

"And it was really a surprise to us too," says John Childs, bank vice president, "we didn't realize, until it was installed, that the new sign was complete with the Celsius readings."

So next time you're downtown take a look at the bank's new sign and start learning the new metric system through the bank's innovative sign which is the first to be installed in the Texas Panhandle.

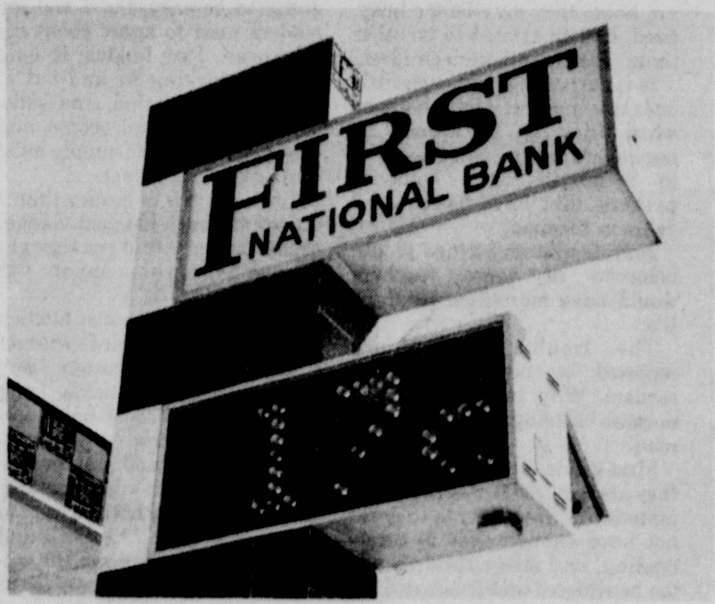
The Celsius readout is the metric measure for temperature and the Celsius scale divides the difference between freezing and boiling points into 100 equal degrees which is called centigrade. The centigrade measure was invented in 1742 by Swedish astronomer, Anders Celsius.

Residents who would rather work out the Celsius reading for themselves may follow the following formula. Take the temperature (whether it is above or below freezing) and then take the difference between the Fahrenheit reading and the number 32 (the freezing point). Now divide the result received by 1.8 and you'll have the Celsius reading.

For those who like it easy — take a glance at the bank's new sign which flashes not only the Celsius reading, but also the Fahrenheit reading as well as the current date.

Most metric conversion authorities recommend that good swimmimg weather is 30 degrees Celsius and a comfortable room temperature is about 22 degrees Celsius, while water will freeze at 0 degrees Celsius.

O degrees C.?



The sign at First National Bank now gives you the time and temperature with the temperature in both centigrade and farenheit measurements. The change was effected last week.

Police investigating possible link between assault here, Amarillo

City police believe there may be a link between the mid-April rape of a Canyon woman and several similar unsolved incidents in Amarillo.

Chief Al Stewart said last week the method of operation of the man who raped a 22-year-old city woman early April 17 in her Canyon apartment is "exactly like" the method of operation of a rapist who has been involved in at least two other rapes in Amarillo in recent months.

He said the cord used to tie the Canyon woman is the same type used by the rapist in the other incidents in Amarillo.

Police are unsure whether the man, still unidentified, lives in Canyon or in Amarillo, Stewart said. He said he is working with Amarillo police on the case.

Dist. Atty. Randall Sherrod said that while victims have been virtually unable to supply information which would lead to a positive identification of their assailant, police believe he is a black male.

He said there is also evidence the same man may have been responsible for the recent assault and death of a pre-teenage girl whose body was found near Amarillo.

The possible link-up of the incidents is the only sound lead local police have had in the Canyon assault since it occurred beginning about 1 a.m. April 17 in an East Canyon apartment.

The assailant, wielding a knife, raped the Canyon woman three times during a four-hour period.

She was found by neighbors bound and gagged in her car a short distance from the apartment complex.

The rape was the first reported to city police since at least 1968.

University may ask funds for remedial reading, study courses

West Texas State University will ask for special funds to offer remedial reading and study programs for students during the next legislative session, if a proposal now being considered internally is submitted.

Dr. Ray Malzahn, academic vice president, said the university is now considering a proposal to ask the legislature to fund a line-item budget expenditure to expand the current remedial reading program and to put together a study skills package.

While a remedial reading program has been offered in the department of English for some time, he indicated, the evidence indicates expansion is needed.

"We have to have rigorous standards at the institution, but what do you do if they (the students) can't handle it?" he said.

Dr. Ronald Huffstutler, assistant to Malzahn, said WTSU faces the same problems of academic preparedness of incoming students faced by just about every other institution.

"We, by law, have an open-door admission policy which means even if a student is a high-risk student, we must accept that student," he said.

Huffstutler said that college entrance exam scores for students entering WTSU have remained stable for a number of years, there is one area of concern.

"In the social sciences area (of the test), which is close to reading, the scores have been dropping for the last five or six years," he said. "In addition, the ACT test asks students if they perceive a need for help in reading.

"Forty-two percent of our students said they needed help in reading. Forty-seven percent said they perceived the need for study skills improvement — how to study — and 49 percent said they needed help in vocational decision-making.

"When you look at that plus the fact that we lose 50 percent of our students between the freshman and sophomore years, you can't help but be impressed by the fact that about 50 percent say they need help."

The university is offering on a limited basis reading improvement programs through the English Department, he said, but demand for the courses always exceeds the number of courses which can be available.

Malzahn said the reading improvement courses have become some of the most popular on campus.

Huffstutler said the Coordinating Board, State College and University System will not approve funding for remedial programs for senior colleges.

Thus, he said, the university will seek a specific appropriation from the legislature to expand the current programs and to develop new ones to meet the needs of the students.

It is likely, however, the proposal will not be submitted the legislature.

Malzahn said it is unlikely the legislature would approve of a line-item appropriation for the programs because of the coordinating board's stand.

But, he said, "I think it would be helpful to our students."

Record tourist year seen here

More tourists than ever should find their way to Canyon area summer attractions this year.

That's the prediction this week from local officials who say the tourist dollar is becoming ever more important to local businesses.

Palo Duro Canyon officials expect to break the million visitor mark for the first time in history this year, spurred by a pretty-weather winter and spring.

Canyon's major summer attraction, the musical-drama "TEXAS" in Palo Duro Canyon State Park, is expected to have record crowds after its opening on June 16.

Raymond Raillard, manager of "TEXAS," said advance reservation requests are running ahead of last year, the record year he hopes to break this summer.

"We have reservations from one end of the country to the other," he said, "from Los Angeles to New York City."

Reservations for this summer's production, he said, began arriving at the box office earlier than usual and he already has bookings for the 1977, 1978 and 1980 seasons.

As of the last of April, more than 250 buses had booked reservations for the show, a few more buses than had made reservations at the same time last year.

Raillard said the show will be able to accommodate a few more spectators each night due to a rearrangement of chairs in the Pioneer Amphitheatre.

Elon Baker, superintendent of Palo Duro Canyon State Park, said so far this fiscal year, the park attendance is running about 200,000 ahead of last year's attendance at the same time.

Just under 750,000 persons visited the park last year and the figure is expected to top 1 million this year.

Visitors to the park this summer will find many improvements, not the least of which is the new Coronado Interpretive Center, an indoor display area which tells the history of the canyons.

New camping areas for recreational vehicles, new roads and new picnic areas will also greet visitors this summer.

A renovation and building project at the park begun last winter is expected to be completed by late June.

Dr. James Hanson, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, looks for an increase in tourist activity this summer at his attraction.

Hanson said 144,000 persons visited the museum last fiscal year and he expects the figure to be topped this year.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Roland Black predicts 1976 will be "real good" in terms of tourism for Canyon.

When she gets the time

Strain intends to sue

Canyon's chief financial officer, Mrs. Margerite Strain, said this week she intends to sue both the Texas Municipal Retirement System and the City of Canyon for alleged discrimination based on age and sex.

Several years ago, she filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, charging that she was being discriminated against because she was a woman.

The complaint has been investigated, but no ruling has been issued. Thursday Squire Padgett, an EEOC official in Washington, advised Mrs. Strain to pursue the complaint through the court.

The issue is the amount of retirement pay and the age for retirement. Mrs. Strain contends that to receive the same retirement check as a man aged 65, she will have to work five years longer, until she reaches 70. The difference is based on Texas Municipal Retirement System actuarial tables that show the average lifespan for a woman is five years longer than for a man.

According to Padgett, EEOC has delayed a decision in the Strain case until all agencies of the federal government reaches a uniform policy. This is prevent, for example, the Department of Labor ruling one way and the Department of Justice another, he said.

So far, no uniform policy has been reached. Padgett said the decision was to have been made last October, but wasn't. Then a policy was to have been issued in April. But, again, it wasn't.

"The problem here is bigger than just Canyon," he pointed out. "There is a very important concept here in terms of how insurance companies finance their claims. So it has to be looked at very, very carefully."

In the meantime, Mrs. Strain has become discouraged. She would rather, she said, see the city adopt the updated retirement plan that would substantially increase her benefits.

"Then I'd just drop this suit," she said.

The city had a chance to increase retirement benefits this year but passed it up.

Now the earliest the retirement increases could be put into effect by the city is 1978 because the budget for this year is already set. The city could include the added retirement in next year's budget but the plan would not take effect until Jan. 1, 1978. The additional benefits would cost the city an estimated $2,000 more than the present plan.

The road to the courthouse, if Mrs. Strain files suit, is a long and winding one. She must first get a statement from the EEOC office permiting her to file suit.

Padgett said the statement will be issued if she requests it.

The American Civil Liberties Union in Austin some time ago asked to represent her in court, Mrs. Strain said. She plans to contact the ACLU again.

But she doesn't hold much hope for a lawsuit.

"Because it's not going to do any good. They (the federal government) can't tell the states what to do when they discriminate themselves," she said.

She said she is ready to retire.

"I'm 67. That's too old to work, isn't it? I'd like to retire but I can't retire on imagination."

New school site to be named

Canyon School Board members are expected to announce the site of a proposed new elementary school Tuesday night.

The site is expected to be somewhere in the Hollywood Road-McCormick Road vicinity east of the Canyon Expressway in the north part of the district.

The board has met behind closed doors in several meetings during the last few months to discuss possible sites for the proposed new school.

Admin. Asst. W. V. McAlpin recently pointed out to board members possible general site locations near Hollywood Road and McCormick Road between Washington Street and the expressway.

Board members have said the site announcement will come before a scheduled May 25 bond issue election at which voters will decide whether to approve the issuance of $2,950,000 in bonds for construction of a new elementary school and additions and remodelling of Canyon High School.

Board members will meet twice this week, once Monday night in a joint session with the Amarillo School Board to discuss an informal agreement concerning future de-annexations of lands, and again Tuesday night in regu-

Salving the sore toe at WTSU

Perhaps more dispiriting than last Monday's display before the West Texas State University board of regents is the specter of an agony of fund-raising for athletics every year from now on.

As a man with sore toe would be somewhat suspect for severing the complaining component from his body, so would WTSU be thoughtless to sever from the university something which, to many, is definitely a part of university life. But, just as a man with sore toe would not allow it to become an obsessively important aspect of his life, neither should WTSU engross itself and its public relations efforts so obsessively with athletics that the academic aspect of the institution is perceived as having only secondary priority.

This is particularly true when viewed in the light shed by a study made public last week by Dr. Roy Martin and a graduate student, Robert Lynn Laycock, a study of AAAA high school seniors in the Panhandle which shows beyond much doubt that athletic offerings of a college weigh insignificantly in the decision of those seniors on what college to attend.

If the patrons, those high school students, view athletics as relatively unimportant in their decision to select a college, and their action, (as indicated by the study, they select Amarillo College first) backs up their words, then when do we lay to rest the myth of the purpose of college athletics?

Even beginning with a questionable assumption that athletics plays a major role in keeping students in the university, the study forces an objective observer to ask why the university allows athletics to become a sore toe allowed to fester out of proportion.

The university is projected into the public eye more these days because of its athletic funding problems than because of anything else. Can it be argued that high school seniors in the region, and their parents, might suspect, after six months of media focus on athletic woes of the university, that priorities may be a bit out of kilter on the campus?

Conflict makes headlines and a 60-second spot on television news broadcasts and because of the bad blood between the university's administration and Athletic Director Gene Mayfield it appears likely that so long as the regents require a balanced athletic budget and the pursuant annual fund-raiser, athletics and athletic conflict will stick out like a sore toe to be saved in public.

An obvious solution is for the administration to declare that athletics is simply not a top priority item at the university, a declaration the evidence would seem to back. A down-grading of the athletic program, perhaps even the elimination of football since it's the costliest and apparently least successful program of the athletic offerings, would be in line with this down-to-earth priority.

Rather than continuing as a willing partner to conflict over the strangely (particularly in an academic environment) important question of a team's win-loss record, the administration should take the initiative in withdrawing from the fracas, placing itself above and beyond such trivial concerns as whether a team is better served by a wishbone or Houston veer offense.

Athletics should be a back-burner issue and an academic institution is ill-served which must devote so much time and energy to its problems that the general public perception is one of overwhelming concern.

That a college president's tenure should be determined on the strength of his commitment to football or any other athletic endeavor is laughable.

It is, however, a sad commentary when the measure of a university is made on the same basis.

The image WTSU should be projecting must not correspond with a perceived reality that athletics is of vital and un-ending concern. The image of WTSU must correspond with the realities of the classroom.

The foot, the leg, the body must be and must be seen as of paramount concern.

The sore toe must not be allowed to become infected. — C.W.

Windows display very well done

Windows to the Past, a unique stroll through history down Canyon's main streets Friday and Saturday was an overwhelming success.

Mary Alice Hines, who headed up the planning for the initial thrust into the Bicentennial Celebration here, Jane Stephens, who helped her, and other members of the local bicentennial committee are to be congratulated on a spectacular production.

We look forward to the upcoming July 3rd celebration for more of the same. — C.W.

Children and eating habits

By CARROLL WILSON

I told Susan to stay in bed this morning because some of this column is going to be about the kids.

But, she tells me she's writing her column anyway. So if you don't want to read about my kids, just turn the page.

Well, this is not really about my kids. It's just about kids.

Upon which subject a few observations:

Dr. David LaBrie and the other biologists out at West Texas State who worry about such things should jump on this observation with an eye toward the possibility of obtaining grant funds for a little extensive research.

I have reason to believe that the propensity for kids to dismember an Oreo cookie and lick the white goody from the inside is in-born, innate, a part of the nature of man.

No matter how young the kid, I have observed, the first thing he's gonna do with an Oreo cookie is twist the two chocolate biscuits and then pull them apart and eat the filling.

Rebecca, only 15 months old, and without any apparent example to follow, began some months ago eating Oreo cookies in the fashion I've just described.

Julie's been doing it forever, with the only variation being that she eats the filling and discards the cookies.

Somewhere in my past I also began dissecting Oreos. I'm still doing it.

There is, somewhere and somehow, in that great American gene pool an errant gene which causes kids and adults to approach Oreos with an utter lack of civility.

A second observation, this one on maturing and man's approach to food.

Man, early-on, finds food less a thing to be eaten than a thing to be played with.

Give Rebecca a tomato, one of those lovely, plump, little cherry tomatoes, and she will squeeze it in her tiny fist until the juice and seeds squish through her fingers.

Give Rebecca a green bean. Her response is the same.

She'd rather starve than be denied the thrill of squishing something delectable into a streaming pulp.

Illustrating the basically perverse nature of a 15-month-old, Rebecca, while she will squeeze the life from anything edible, will poke without reservation cigarette butts, rocks, azalea leaves, carpet lint, spiders, bobby pins and soft drink bottle tops into her mouth.

Julie and D'Arcy, on the other hand, will eat virtually anything placed before them. There is, however, a distinct difference in the ways they approach their food.

Julie is still in the immediate-gratification stage. This is the stage where, when you give her one of those gooey donuts with cherry jelly in the middle, she will thrust her tiny paw into the cherry mass first thing and poke it in her mouth.

D'Arcy is in the more mature stage where anticipation is part of the reward for patience. Given a cherry filled donut, she will eat everything except the cherry filling first, savoring last of all the filling itself.

And yet, D'Arcy still insists on taking apart an Oreo to lick out the white stuff.

Dean Mitch Jones, the former football coach, former dean of men at West Texas State, wanted a pony for his grandchildren, so he obtained one which has apparently made the rounds in Canyon, going from grandparent to grandparent.

He put the pony in a pasture along with a dozen or so other mares out at the Palo Duro Club.

A neighbor had a spry young stallion, which was also turned into the pasture after the neighbor obtained from the vet the information that the stallion was too young to mess with the mares.

Now Mitch Jones and almost a dozen of the other horse owners in the pasture have their original stock plus new colts.

All of which illustrates the low level of morality among horses these days.

The true test of civic virtue,
And a man's dedication to knowledge,
Is whether he votes for the new school bond —
When his kids are all through college.

Our world

Golden rule practice needed

BY ANN BROWN

Authorities from all religious, political, and economic persuasions agree our world is in trouble. About the only cure recommended, however, is more of what got us into trouble in the first place.

Does anyone really believe the Creator made this big, beautiful, wonderful world, and put man in charge of it without giving him any directions at all?

God supplied explicit instructions for subduing the earth. Jesus summarized those instructions in the Sermon on the Mount. The text of that sermon is "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

The modern philosophy is, "Don't punish the criminal; seek the cause of anti-social behavior." Why not apply the same rule to our troubled society?

The home is the foundation of society. At least 70 percent of juvenile delinquents are reported to come from broken homes. If every husband and wife followed the Golden Rule, who would file for divorce?

The average American child is likely to spend more working hours with a babysitter than with parents. When the parents are home they may be too busy, tired, and frustrated to be other than irritable with their children.

Is it surprising that such little ones are insolent and rebellious when they go to school? A beginner's teacher can't do much in 9 months with behavior patterns that have been 5 or 6 years in forming.

And if children learned proper behavior at home, teachers would have more time for the 3 R's.

The trouble makers are reported to be largely non-readers. Why can't a child of normal intelligence learn to read?

First-grade teachers insist they are required to push so much material at the students they do not have enough time to teach reading, and many children are too bewildered and frustrated by it all to learn anything.

Any experienced teacher certified to teach first grade probably knows her subject better than anyone at the top of the school pyramid who makes the rules for her to follow.

Classroom teachers are regimented by the administration; the administrators are regimented by the state, and the state takes orders from the federal government.

It should be obvious by now that the federal government does not know how to run schools.

There was a time when violence, vandalism, and illiteracy were confined to slum schools in big cities. Now, thanks to federal interference, hardly a school in America is immune. And about 75,000 teachers are reported to require medical attention because of assaults from students each year.

According to J.A. Harris, past president of the National Education Association, 23 percent of our children fail to graduate from high school, and 11 percent graduate but are still functionally illiterate. That means 34 percent of young Americans face life as failures!

How are the schools trying to cope with this situation?

Prince George County, Maryland, installed a $600,000 burglar alarm system, and hired 42 security guards (professional investigator-counselors) at a cost of $750,000.

The John Adams school in Portland, Oregon, divided 1200 students into 8 "schools-within-a-school," of 150 pupils with 7 teachers each, so every teacher could become well acquainted with each student. After three years, they reported anti-social behavior cut in half.

Portland is apparently on the right track, but the progress is too little, and high school is too late.

Homes and communities have different needs. The school within the community has the best chance of knowing and meeting those needs.

All the outside pressure in the world cannot make good homes or schools out of bad ones; changes must come from within.

Even a simple pill bottle can no longer be opened without reading the instructions; how can we expect to create good homes and schools without following the Creator's directions?

When homes and schools function according to the Golden Rule, the rest of society will take care of itself.

Practicing the Golden Rule needs to begin at the top of the pyramid of authority. In the home it has to start with parents.

School administrators should filter it down through the teachers to the students.

And the state and federal governments could hardly continue interference against the combined protests of parents, teachers, and administrators.

The Kitchen Sink

By SUSAN WILSON

It's True Confessions time. Yes, I'm going to shock you by discussing one of the seamier sides of my character. This isn't going to be easy, but I feel my readers need to know about my weakness. I've hidden it long enough, ducking in and out of places of temptation, and whispering to disreputal people, and I'm so ashamed — I simply must come out of the closet.

You see, (this is harder than I thought), I'm a Kitchen Gadget Freak. Yes, me! And you thought it never happened to anyone you knew.

I simply cannot resist kitchen gadgets. To my shame I own over a hundred cookie cutters, tiny tart pans, brioche molds, icing combs. On the sly I have purchased pastry crimpels, Madeline pans, and a plum pudding mold. Oh, it's been a terrible existence. I've tried so hard to stay away from the pots and pans, the wooden spoons, the specialty molds ... but, it hasn't been easy. I sneak off, away from Hubby and the kids, and buy things like nutmeg graters, spice grinders, a melon baller and . . . worst of all . . . a flan pan.

I know that I can't blame my family, there really is no rationale for my behavior, but I must tell you that my mother is a book freak, and my father is an electrical gadget freak, and even my grandmother has a terrible weakness for antiques.

Even my poor innocent-looking little sister is a plant freak.

Since I've discovered that my father-in-law is a record nut, and Hubby can't resist car magazines, I'm worried about my kids.

A weakness like this is so hard to overcome. After a few weeks without purchasing any gadgets I begin to get shaky. Over a month and I'm trembling. After two months I'm desperately looking through kitchen gadget catalogs that I have hidden under my mattress, trying to satisfy me wanton desire.

It had been over three months for me last Friday. I was so proud of myself, and thought I was strong enough to resist any temptation.

I took the kids into a store, and while we were wandering around, I felt drawn to the area of the store where the kitchen utensils are displayed. I should have resisted then, but instead I walked up and down the rows of gleaming teapots, and wire whisks, and woks. Then, already weakened, I saw my undoing — the sale sign. I broke. I bought five cookie cutters, a lamb cake pan, a German Stollen mold, and an olive pitter.

Oh, I'm so ashamed! But it feels good to get it out in the open at last.

Cornbread-bean feast Wednesday

Red beans and cornbread will be served at a supper being sponsored by the Serendipiteens on Wednesday, May 19, in the fellowship hall of First Christian Church.

The supper will begin at 5:30 p.m. with serving going through 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children six and younger.

In addition to the supper, the group will be selling tickets for several pieces of artwork to be given away during the evening. Art objects have been donated by Janet Blasdel, who prepared a handcrafted silver and turquoise necklace; D.C. Gamble, who presented two metal sculptures; and Emily Upshaw and Mrs. Newton Harrell, who have provided two oil paintings.

4-H news: Teen leaders have meeting

BY PAUL SAMMONS

4-H teen leaders met last week at the Farm Bureau building to plan a float for the Canyon Days Parade July 3.

The float will carry out the national theme, Spirit of Tomorrow, in red, white and blue. Construction will get underway one week before the parade.

Officers chosen for the Teen Leaders Association are Larry Hales, president; Randy Deikard, vice-president; and Ranger Thornton, secretary-treasurer.

Attending the meeting were Becky Freeman, Irene Grabber, Carla Woosley, Tom Grabber, Larry Hartman, Debra Hartman, Debbie Detten, Karen Janelle, David Hall, Ranger Thornton, Randy Deikard, Larry Hales, Mitchel Carthel, Debbie Hales, Jody Detten, Guy Osborn, Mary Jo Turpin, Mrs. Jones Hales, Mrs. Judy Detten, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carthel and County Extension Agent, Becky Hall.

The agents assisted the teen leaders during their meeting.

The newly elected officers for the Randell 4-H Club were Larry Hales, president; Debbie Hales, vice-president; Tom Grabber, secretary; Irene Grabber, treasurer; Guy Osborn, reporter.

Council delegate is Becky Freeman and alternate is Carla Woosley.

The program was on project selection. Questionnaires were handed out to seek interests of members and leaders.

The 4-H Tee-Anchor Horse Club of Randall County will meet May 21 at 7 in the West Texas State University arena. Everyone interested in a 4-H horse project is urged to attend and to bring a horse. Officers will be elected then.

Kathy Horton is very knowledgable in horses and is doing a great job to get this club going. Please try to make it.

What is 4-H? 4-H is going places: group activities, club meetings, camps, fairs, stock shows and contests are a part of every 4-Hers program.

4-H is helping others: practicing good citizenship and developing leadership talents.

4-H is learning to do things: you can select what you want to do. Projects are available to fit any situation.

4-H is having fun: It is not all work. 4-H is making new friends. You can share talents, skills and hobbies.

Be a 4-H member. You'll enjoy it.

City to reorganize housing authority

Canyon Housing Authority, which has been inactive for some time, is reorganizing, city manager Glen Metcalf said.

City commissioners have been asked to appoint a new member at their meeting Monday night to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Terry Pittman.

Metcalf explained that the housing authority in the past has not always complied with Housing and Urban Development regulations because various reports were submitted.

The rent-subsidized public housing complex with 16 apartments has usually been managed by a college student, Metcalf said. The low pay for the manager and the number of reports required has made it difficult to get competent managers, he said.

"We're going to try to make it (the housing authority) operative and meet with HUD requirements. And we hope to have a little better management," Metcalf said.

Also on the agenda for Monday night will be a discussion of the city's percent of property valuation.

Because the city and the school district have a combined tax office, the school's recent increase in the percent of valuation from 40 to 80 percent has posed a problem for the city.

City attorney Elton Cox is scheduled to outline the legal considerations. The city has already adopted a budget for this year, based on 40 percent valuation and a $1.82 tax rate. The school district does not begin a new fiscal year until October.

Other items on the agenda include opening bids on a pickup truck for the water and sewer department and consideration of an ordinance to change the trash pickup rate for multifamily housing to $2 per unit. A contract with Metropolitan Ambulance Service will also be considered.

City commissioners meet at 7 p.m. in the commissioners' chambers on the second floor of the civic complex.

Phebean class has fellowship

Phebean Sunday School class met at the home of Daisy Neal for the monthly fellowship with Laura Hartman opening the business meeting and roll call with each person telling their remembrances of their own Mothers.

Reports were made concerning sick members and friends and the devotional, given by Mrs. Caldwell, centered on Solomon 11:12-13 showing that each flower does its own thing at the time appointed by God.

"Gee Whiz, I'm Old" was the title for the program given by Mrs. Cunningham. Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Aaron Jennings, co-hostess. Present were Mesdames Helen Davis, Eula Caldwell, Jewel Sibley, Martha Goodman, Daisy Neal, Cecilia Weathers, Jewel Pruett, Mollie Baber, Gladys Blair, Faye Marshall, Florence Stephenson, Evelyn Moore, Pearl Ford, Jettrew Winters, Laura Hartman and a visitor, Mrs. Cunningham. Next meeting will be June 10 with Mrs. Edd Reynolds.

Four take stipends

Two Canyon High School seniors and two West Texas State University students from Canyon have received scholarships and awards.

Paul Kerr, son of Reavis Kerr, 1800 8th Avenue, and Patty Ann Crowley, daughter of Joe Crowley of Rt. 3, have received Residence Hall scholarships for the 1976-77 academic year, while Larry Roberts of 203 28th and Jonathan Hart, 104 North 28, received awards from the WTSU School of Agriculture.

Hart, an agriculture major, was named the outstanding senior agriculture student and Roberts was named the outstanding senior in agriculture-business and economics.

Kerr was also the recipient of the Levi Cole Scholarship awarded for the 1976-77 academic year.

Dog class is planned

A dog obedience course will be held in Canyon next month with a portion of the class fee to be donated to the city parks and recreation fund.

The 8-week class will begin June 1 at 7:30 in Conner Park. Instructors will be Mist Wilson and Laurie Telfair.

One third of the $15 class fee will be given to the parks fund. For additional information, call 655-7926 or 488-3153.

Eagles to face Pecos in playoff

Canyon Eagles have cinched the first district title in baseball ever won by the school.

They will meet Pecos in a bi-district tourney but final arrangements won't be made until early next week when Pecos finishes its season, Canyon coach Mike Auld said.

CHS played its last two games here Saturday in a double header against Levelland but the outcome had no effect on the district championship.

The Eagles wrapped that title up last week when they split a double header with Dumas.

After losing the first game 4-0, Canyon came back in the second game with a 12-9 win. Hoss Ratliff started the game and Ken Cooper took over in the second inning.

Top hitters included Matt Madewell, who rapped out four hits for five times at bat; Greg Taylor, three for five with a double to his credit; Randy Langen, three for four with a double and Ratliff, who doubled.

WT golfers could be in MVC running

A casual glance at West Texas State University's 1976 golf statistics won't tell you much about the Buffaloes' chances in the 1976 Missouri Valley Conference tournament Wednesday through Friday (May 19-21), but dig a bit deeper and you might see why Coach Vern Farquhar's team may be right in the running for the team title.

This year's 38th annual championship will be played over the Amarillo and Tascosa country clubs, courses with which the Buffaloes have more than just cursory knowledge. "We've been playing on those courses for seven years now, ever since I've been coaching here," Farquhar says. "To a real good, top-notch team, that knowledge could be a great advantage."

At one point this spring, the course familiarity could have been an even greater plus for the Buffaloes. When the MVC expanded its golf tournament to 72-holes, league athletic directors originally eliminated the customary pre-meet practice round. Last week, the AD's reconsidered and the six visiting teams will get a chance to familiarize themselves with the two Amarillo layouts.

No matter how the Buffs do as a team, it would be a wise bet that one of the five-man team breaks loose for an outstanding tournament. Two years ago. WT's Jerry Boeka won medalist honors in the MVC meet in Denton, and last year in Wichita, Tommy Smith led the tournament for 18 holes before finishing third.

Just which player it will be is the question. "I think that any one of three players have a chance to have a really outstanding tournament," Farquhar adds. "Junior Salinas, Tommy Smith, or Alan Johnson have the ability to play well at any time, and I think one or all of them will next week."

If it is all three, the Buffs may be in the thick of the team championship race. That title is up for grabs as North Texas State, which had dominated MVC golf play for years, droppped out of the league after last year's championships.

The Eagles won last year's title by 11 strokes over runnerup Tulsa. The Hurricane were led by Ron Streck, last year's medalist who will be back to defend his title this year. Streck won the crown by eight strokes over NT's Doug Higgins and by 10 over WT's Smith, and he holds the MVC's best stroke average this year, a sparkling 71.8 norm per 18 holes.

Play in the Valley's 38th golf tournament begins Wednesday with 36 holes, the rounds at both Amarillo and Tascosa. Thursday's 18 holes at ACC and Friday's final 18 at TCC will end the meet. There will be no sudden death playoff in the event of a tie in either the individual or team competition; co-champions will be declared.

Tracksters head for runner-up slot

Southern Illinois' powerful Salukis are odds-on favorites for the team title, but West Texas State should be in the fight for the runnerup spot in the 66th Missouri Valley Conference track and field meet Friday and Saturday at the Buffalo track.

The Salukis should continue their domination of the MVC track scene with Wichita State, New Mexico State, Drake, and WT rated the top challengers. Bradley and Tulsa are also entered.

The Buffs have only one defending champion back to defend his title. Senior Marvin Self won the discus in Wichita last year, but owns only the fourth best toss in the league this year.

Buff Coach Bob Kitchens doesn't expect Self to finish fourth in the Valley, though. "Marvin is a winner," Kitchens allows. "He'll get out there and throw whatever he has to to win."

Kitchens hopes that desire will be indicative of the West Texas State effort in the biggest meet the Buffs have ever hosted. WT has event leaders in John Chemaringo in the 800-meter run and David Willis in the 110-meter hurdles, but neither runner has run particularly well in the later meets this spring.

Chemaringo has run a 1:50.8 880-yard run (which converts to a 1:50.1 in the metric distance), while Willis, who split his time this spring between track and football, has a best of 13.9 in the high hurdles.

Kitchens also expects a top performance from Joseph Kemei (Tiony) in the mile, 1,500-meters and 5,000-meters. Kemei ran a 3:47.2 metric mile in the Texas Relays, a time that is second to the 3:47.1 run by Wichita State's Dean Hageman.

Overall, the Buffs have scoring capability in 17 of the 19 events. "On paper, we are probably the third place team, but we have a chance to move up to second if somebody is able to break up Wichita State's points in the steeplechase and 10,000 meters," Kitchens says. "Southern Illinois is the strong favorite to win the conference again.

Fitness program for senior group

Margaret Logan, physical fitness instructor for the Amarillo Senior Citizens Association and the RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), will be in Canyon Monday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. to organize a mild fitness program for local senior citizens.

The fitness program is open to both men and women of the ages 55 and older who are asked to meet in the new Canyon Senior Citizens Building at 1:30 p.m. on Monday. Further plans will be announced following the organizational session.

Buff netters in favorite slot

No matter how you look at it, West Texas State must be put in the favorite's role in this week's Missouri Valley Conference tournament at WTSU.

First of all, there's the simple fact that the Buffs easily won it all last year, and five of the six singles players — four of whom won individual titles in '75 at Tulsa — will be returning. All five are the top returning finishers from each position in last year's meet, and newcomer Doug Davis has the best singles record on the team at 21-9.

Then there's the home court advantage, and while the physical dimensions of the court itself never change, Buffalo fans are known to enthusiastically support their team.

But most important is the fact that the Buffs have been there before. "This is one thing that is going in our favor," agrees Coach David Kent. "We are the champions until someone takes it away from us. We are used to winning and we expect to win. I think that our winning attitude will help us more than any other thing."

To say Kent simply wins in the Missouri Valley Conference is understating the point. In the first five years of MVC competition under Kent, West Texas State netters have won 14 singles and seven doubles crowns. In dual competition against MVC teams in this year's tournament, Kent's teams have won 15 and lost only once.

That one loss, however, came this year to Southern Illinois in the Oklahoma City University tournament in early April. WT was playing without number three player Todd Reed at the time who was out with a knee injury. He will play in the MVC meet.

The Salukis and Tulsa are the teams Kent is most worried about. "I think the favorites should be WT and Tulsa," Kent says. "Tulsa has a fine team. They've beaten Oral Roberts twice and have a win over SIU."

West Texas State's fortunes in the MVC meet this year will be determined early. The Buffs play SIU in their second match Thursday (1:30 p.m.) and will meet Tulsa at 8 a.m. Friday.

West Texas has four singles and two doubles titlists returning. Steve Johnson (No. 2), Todd Reed (No. 3), Jay Goss (No. 4), and Bobby (Kleinecke (No. 6) will defend their crowns this year, and Brett Hall is the top returning play in the number one singles.

In doubles play, Johnson and Hall should rate as the best bet in the number one position. That pair is 19-3 this year with wins over quality teams from Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma City, Utah, and Southern Illinois.

The Buffs' other doubles teams, Reed-Davis and Goss-Kleinecke, have not played much together because of the injuries to Reed and freshman Joe Dan McBeth. Reed-Davis is only 3-2 and Goss-Kleinecke is but 4-2.

Two other champions return this year. Tulsa's John Frates won the number five singles this year, and Wichita State's Jay Louderback and Doug Glendenning won the number one doubles crown a year ago. That pair is 11-0 this spring and should provide Johnson-Hall with a run for the money.

Here is WTSU's schedule in the 58th MVC Tennis Championships: Thursday, 8 a.m: Drake; 1:30 p.m: Southern Illinois. Friday, 8 a.m: Tulsa; 1:30 p.m: Bradley. Saturday, 1:30 p.m: New Mexico State; 6:30 p.m: Wichita State.

University leadership positions for Williams

Steven E. Williams of Canyon has been elected as vice president for the West Texas State University Student Association and will serve as the WT Student Senate president for the 1976-77 term.

A junior university student, Williams is an Industrial Technology major. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Williams of 2611 10th Avenue, Canyon, and earned his high school diploma with the CHS class of 1973. That same year he was selected for the award as outstanding trackman at CHS.

He is presently serving as vice president of Technology for West Texas Industrial Arts Association and is vice president of Lambda Chi Alpha national fraternity. He was selected as outstanding sophomore for the Industrial Education Department and is on the Dean's List, the President's Honor Roll and is a member of Alpha Chi National Honorary Scholastic Society.

Bicentennial program fetes home demonstration

The bicentennial year's May Day luncheon for home demonstration clubwomen of Randall County was held Monday noon, May 10, in Canyon Community Center with about 130 persons being served.

Bicentennial miniature dolls decorated the head table where the various club's "women of the year" were seated for the luncheon. Honored were Mrs. Bennie Wyatt of the Panhandlers HD Club, Mrs. Warren Thompson of Highland HD Club, Mrs. W.D. Walker of Edgetown HD Club, Mrs. W.C. DeBord of Palo Duro Rusk HD Club, Mrs. Earl Burtz of Pleasantview HD Club, Mrs. Tom Wilhelm of Jowell HD Club and Mrs. Don Goode of Sunnyhill HD Club.

Women of the year were introduced by the various club presidents as were the charter members who were recognized as special guests for the event. Recognized as charter members for Pleasantview HD Club were Mrs. Charlie Devenport, Mrs. Earl Burtz, Mrs. John Jennings, Mrs. Ethel Dooley and Mrs. Joe Currie. Charter members recognized for Palo Duro Rusk HD Club were Mrs. J.C. McClendon, Mrs. Clem Dugan, Mrs. Henry Miller and Mrs. Francis Northcutt. Others recognized as charter members were Mrs. Earl Davis of Jowell HD Club, Mrs. Jack Foster of Lakeside, and Mrs. E.W. Miller of Sunnyhill HD Club, as well as the membership of the Panhandlers HD Club which was recently organized in the county.

Mrs. Bill West, county HD council chairman, introduced the various club presidents who in turn introduced their charter members and honorees for the "women of the year."

Mrs. Cristler Crain introduced Jean Wright of Jean's of Canyon for a fashion program featuring spring fashions for teens through mid-age. Mrs. Wright narrated the fashion program and various models including several home demonstration clubwomen presented the program at the annual event.

Nursing grads being honored

Three nursing students from Canyon will be among the 100 receiving awards and honors during the May 16 candlelight ceremony honoring the 1976-77 graduates of Amarillo College.

The nursing ceremonies are to begin at 6:30 p.m. May 16 at the Concert Hall/Theater of the Fine Arts Complex of Amarillo College, 2200 S. Van Buren.

Canyon students being honored include Sherri Newman who will receive her stripe and pin as a summer graduate and Wanda White and Frances Nelson, both of Canyon, who will receive stripes with the class of '77 students.

Birthday party for Canyon Dames

Canyon Dames will meet on Thursday to celebrate the club's birthday with a party at the Episcopal Center.

The party will begin at 12:30 p.m. and refreshments will feature birthday cake for members and guests attending. All attending are asked to bring a $2 gift for a birthday exchange.

"Woman of the Year" honors were extended by home demonstration clubs of the county to the outstanding members from left, front, Mrs. Bennie Wyatt of the Panhandlers HD Club, Mrs. Warren Thompson of Highland HD Club, Mrs. W.D. Walker of Edgetown HD Club; and back row, from left, Mrs. W.C. DeBord of Palo Duro Rusk HD Club, Mrs. Earl Burtz of Pleasantview HD Club, Mrs. Tom Wilhelm of Jowell HD Club and Mrs. Don Goode of Sunnyhill HD Club.

The bicentennial May Day luncheon for home demonstration clubs of Randall County was held May 10 with charter members of the various clubs being honored. Charter clubmembers pictured were, from left, front, Mrs. Charlie Devenport of Pleasantview, Mrs. Earl Burtz of Pleasantview and Mrs. Earl Davis of Jowell; and back row, from left, Mrs. Jack Foster of Lakeside, Mrs. E.W. Miller of Sunnyhill, Mrs. John Jennings of Pleasantview, and Mrs. Clem Dugan of Palo Duro Rusk. (Not pictured were charter members including: Mrs. J.C. McClendon, Mrs. Henry Miller and Mrs. Francis Northcutt all of Palo Duro Rusk, Mrs. Ethel Dooley and Mrs. Joe Currie both of Pleasantivew, and the charter members of the new home demonstration club of the Panhandlers).

Honors initiate is Canyon girl

Sharon Lumry of 505 Taylor Lane, Canyon, was among 275 Texas Tech University students honored during the spring banquet of Phi Kappa Phi, all university honor society, recently.

Miss Lumry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Lumry of Canyon, was among those initiated by the society at the festivity.

Showers fete local couple

Miss Connie Ruth Pitt, bride-elect of Gary Dean Morris, was honored recently with bridal fetes preceding their marriage which is planned for June 11.

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Pitt was held recently in Amarillo with Cathy Kuhn, Debbie Erwin, Linda Wakefield and Leslie Teters as hostesses. The table was decorated with a blue linen tablecloth and centered with spring flowers. Strawberry punch and cake was served.

On Saturday, May 8, Miss Pitt was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Nig Carter #4 Bramblewood, Canyon between 3-4:30 p.m.

Receiving guests with the honoree and hostess were Mrs. Merle Pitt, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. P.L. Pitt, grandmother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Wayne Morris, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

A mixed floral bouquet centered the table which was laid with a white cloth and overlay of sheer organza embossed with pink, blue and yellow carnations.

Attending the reception table were Cathy Kuhn and Debbie Erwin. Guests were registered by Susan Miller.

Co-hostesses included Mesdames Joe Taylor, Paul Mann, Bill Counsellor, Joe Abbott, Clifford Abbott, Louie Davis, D.A. Prichard, Don Rozell, Bill Webb, Ken Baker and Alfred Bednorz.

Shower fetes pending vows

The forthcoming marriage of Miss Patricia Tilger, bride-elect of Bob Fenton, was feted with wedding gifts on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Paxton, 3800 Lenwood Drive, Amarillo.

Receiving guests with the hostess and Miss Tilger were her mother, Carolyn Tilger, and Mrs. F.M. Wilbanks of Canyon, grandmother of the bride-elect.

Attending the bride's book was Miss Cathy Kerr. The serving table was laid with a banquet size cutwork linen cloth and centered with an epergne arrangement of mixed blue and white daisies with baby's breath intermingled. Candles flanked with crystal and silver appointments being used.

Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Lawrence Hunnicutt, Mrs. Jack Parsons, Mrs. Ted Allen, Mrs. Tommy Tucker, Mrs. Gilbert Brown, Mrs. Jean Galloway, Mrs. Gloria Crump and Miss Cathy Kerr.

Graveside rites for Jennings, 76 held here Friday

Graveside services for Floyd Jennings, 76, were conducted Friday afternoon at Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of Schooler-Gordon Funeral Directors of Canyon.

A former resident of Canyon, Mr. Jennings died Tuesday at LaCrosse, Kansas. He was born at Purcell in Indian Territory on April 21, 1900 and had lived in Canyon until 1940. He moved to Kansas in 1946.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Jennings was a carpenter and held membership in the First Christian Church. Graveside rites were conducted at Dreamland Cemetery with Rev. Terry White, pastor of the First Christian Church of Canyon, officiating.

Survivors include two brothers, John Jennings and James Jennings, both of Canyon, and two sisters, Mrs. Faye J. Crowley of Canyon and Mrs. George L. Grogan of Amarillo.

We've gone Celsius!

What's a Celsius? That's easy. Previously called centigrade, Celsius is the metric method of measuring temperature. It divides the difference between freezing and boiling into 100 equal degrees. So as the United States moves closer to adopting the metric system, you'll start thinking of 30° C as good swimming weather, and 22° C as comfortable room temperature. And we're here to help. Our time and temperature display will now not only give you the temperature in Fahrenheit, but also Celsius. So keep your eye on us. We hope that with each glance at our display, you'll be reminded of the same accurate, thoughtful service you'll find inside our doors.

Afternoon nuptial rites conducted at St. Mary's

Miss Patricia Marie Batenhorst and Gerald Wayne, Adrian pledged double ring marriage vows in a late afternoon ceremony Saturday, May 15, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Umbarger.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Leroy Mattiesen officiated at the nuptial rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester L. Batenhorst of Umbarger and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Adrian of Olton Rt., Plainview.

Large bouquets of white stock and white carnations accented the main altar with smaller garden bouquets featured on side altars. A side table held the bride and groom candles with the wedding candle in the center amidst a ring of daisy mums.

Bryan and Jay Friemel and Roger Batenhorst served as altar boys and Gary Gerber was lector for the nuptial service.

Mrs. Lydia Grey of Amarillo was organist and soloist was Lewis J. Unger, brother-in-law of the bride, from Amarillo. The musical selections for the occasion were Wedding Prayer, Wedding Song, Walk Hand In Hand, Ave Marie, and Let There Be Peace.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding dress made of double knit in a shell white accented with a front panel of re-embroidered lace with a lace yoke and long lace sleeves edged with ruffled lace. The wedding gown featured a detachable train and was complemented with the wedding veil of double tiered illusion. The bride carried a nosegay of white carnations, daisies and babies breath.

Attendants to the bride were her sister, Jane Batenhorst, and a cousin, Debbie Batenhorst. Jane wore a spring blue dotted swiss full length gown with a front panel of daisy flocked organza and Debbie was attired in a similarly styled formal length dress featuring mint green. Both wore white picture hats with bows matching their dresses and carried nosegays of white daisies.

Best man was Gary Adrian, brother of the bridegroom, from Plainview. Groomsman was Michael Spinhirne of Canyon and ushers included Leon Batenhorst of Dalhart, brother of the bride, and Mark Schumacher of Plainview, cousin of the bridegroom.

St. Mary's Parish Hall was the site for the wedding reception following the nuptial vow exchange. The reception tables were covered with white featuring streamers of the bride's chosen colors. Serving the cake were Cynthia Friemel and Debbye Storckman while Brenda Batenhorst attended the bride's book.

The couple will make their home in Plainview following a wedding trip to San Antonio.

A graduate of Canyon High School, the bride presently attends West Texas State University and was employed with M.E. Moses at the time of marriage. The bridegroom is a graduate of Plainview High School and student of West Texas State University where he is a member of Alpha Gama Roe. He is presently self employed in custom swathing and baling.

Riding clinic set in June

The 11th Annual Riding Clinic at West Texas State University is scheduled for June 6-11. The clinic is sponsored by the National Riding Committee and the WTSU Department of Animal Science.

Two sections of instruction will be taught in English and western style riding. The Western Clinic will be instructed by Mrs. Lea Freeman, quarter-horse breeder and overall clinic chairperson. The English Clinic will be headed by Jan Thompson of Alameda, Ca., who has trained and shown hunters and is a graduate and former instructor at Sweet Briar College in Va.

The clinic is designed to help a rider improve his riding skills and give theory of equitation and background information. Emphasis will be given to the teaching of riding skills. Video-tape equipment will be used to evaluate the riders efforts and to illustrate instruction.

The clinic will offer two sessions of riding a day, one each in the early morning and evening hours. Lecture sessions are scheduled for the afternoon, with recreational activities planned for free time.

The last day of the clinic will be devoted to testing students who wish a rating with the National Riding Committee. The rating reflects the level of riding skills exhibited by the student and includes a written practical and a riding test.

Students may bring their own horses with no stabling fee, or rent a horse for the week-long clinic. Tack, both English and western, dorm rooms and meals, and Activities Center use will also be available.

The clinic fee is $60 per section, dorm room for Sunday through Friday is $16, and the meal ticket is $21.75 for Monday morning through Friday noon and includes Activities Center use. Horse rental will be $5 for the length of the clinic and tack rental is $2.50.

A $10 application fee is required for the course offered by WTSU under the National Riding Committee. The fee will be deducted from the total cost, but will not be refunded if the course is not completed or if the student does not attend the clinic.

Summer intership available at WTSU

Students majoring in criminal justice administration at West Texas State University will have the advantage of a summer internship program, according to Dr. Brent Lynch, associate professor of political science.

A pilot program for the internship was set up by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System. The internships are experimental in nature with participating students receiving payment.

Through the program, students will work in various areas in the realm of criminal justice. The three areas chosen were corrections, probation and pretrial release, and the Alcohol Rehabilitation Center.

Eight students of senior standing and of the highest academic averages will be chosen for the internships. Two students will work within each agency, thus gaining valuable experience and a lead for future employment, Dr. Lynch explained.

Dr. Lynch said that many students who have previously participated in the internship plan are in the field and generally go with the agency where the internship was fulfilled.

"The students get to know the people and learn the job at an agency and gain a lead for working at the agency full time," Lynch added.

Chorale prepares for trip

In preparation for their trip to Wales, the West Texas State University Chorale will begin rehearsals June 1.

About 40 members of the Chorale and ex-students will perform in the Llangollen International Musical Eisteddfod July 6 through 11.

The Chorale will leave the United States July 4 and arrive in London July 5 where they will stay on the Oxford University campus.

They will perform at the festival in the small Welsh town of Llangollen July 6 as one of 200 choirs from 30 countries.

Directed by Dr. Hugh Sanders, WTSU professor of music, the Chorale will be required to sing two selections from the chief European school of composition and one original song from the USA.

First place winners in the festival will be awarded an international trophy and a cash prize for their organization. Cash prizes will also be given to second and third place winners in the competition.

After the festival, Chorale members will visit Leicester, an industrial English city, on July 12 and perform in concert July 13 and 14 in Cambridge, a university town.

Before departing from London on July 17, the group will tour Oxford, Stratford and London, July 14, 15, and 16.

Ex-students participating in the Chorale will include Doug McCause, Canyon High School choral director, and his wife, Jeannie; Dan Steele, employee of First Savings and Loan in Graham, and his wife, Carolyn; Dr. and Mrs. A.T. Mims of Hereford; Bill Devers, choral director at La Plata Junior High School in Hereford; Kevin Crowell, choral director at La Plata Junior High School in Hereford; Kevin Crowell, choral director at Clear Creek High School in League City and his wife, Tommie; and Wayne Anderson, choral director at Clovis High School, and his wife, Becky.

Others are Dr. and Mrs. D.E. McBrayer of Hereford; Bobby Boyd, assistant principal at a Hereford elementary school; Randy Talley, choral director at Phillips High School, and his wife, Sherry; Gene Vaughn Morrison, choral director at Austin Junior High School in Amarillo; and Lela Harris, choral director at Lefors High School.

2 from CHS to compete

Two Canyon High School students will compete in the state high school rodeo finals June 15 through 19 in Hallettsville.

To qualify for the finals, Ronnie Howell placed fourth in tiedown calf roping and Vickie Runyan won second place in break away roping at the Regional I rodeo recently hosted by the West Texas State University Rodeo Club.

The two will compete with winners from seven other regions of the state.

Representatives from regional high schools participated in bull riding, steer wrestling, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, tiedown calf roping, cutting horse contests, cloverleaf barrel race, pole bending race and goat tying.

This is the first year regional qualifying rodeos have been held prior to the state rodeo, according to Dr. Charles Smallwood, WTSU dean of agriculture.

Registration set May 31

Registration for the first summer term at West Texas State University will be May 31 from 9 a.m. until 2:20 p.m. in the WTSU Student Activities Center.

An orientation and advising session for beginning freshmen will be from 9 a.m. until noon in Room 101 of the University Complex South.

Class instruction begins June 1, the last day for paying fees without a $5 penalty.

The first summer term ends July 5, with registration for the second summer term scheduled for July 8.

West Texas State will offer more than 50 short courses this summer in education, animal science, speech, music, business education and mathematics.

First term music workshops are the Piano Teachers Workshop from June 7-11, the Church Music Workshop from June 14-18, the Choral Conductors Workshop from June 21-25 and the Choral Music Camp from June 20-26.

A Readers Theatre Workshop will be held from June 17 through July 5, and an Office Simulation Workshop from June 1-17.

The Department of Animal Science will offer "Advanced Livestock and Meat Evaluation" from May 31 to June 17.

Short courses available in education from May 31 through June 17 include Teaching the Mentally Retarded, Diagnostic Teaching of Reading, The Junior College Curriculum, Human Relations Education Seminar, Learning Disabilities and Plan "A" Practicum for Classroom Teachers which will be offered in Dalhart and Hereford.

Education short courses offered from June 17 through July 5 are Practicum in Counseling, Secondary Curriculum Seminar and Seminar in Social Studies Education.

Police rule out pair in burglary

Police have ruled out two persons they suspected in the burglary last Tuesday night of four Hunsley Hills homes.

They are still checking information, Chief Al Stewart said.

The burglar, apparently looking for money, entered the homes while the families slept. He was seen at the Ross Elliott home and Elliott called the police. About 45 minutes later, the burglar again entered the Elliott home and was frightened away by Elliott holding a shotgun.

The burglar stole $65 from among the four homes.

Census survey here to focus on jobs

How many American workers are holding more than one job? How many are working overtime and what is their overtime pay? What are workers' usual hours on their jobs?

Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas, announced today that information in response to these questions will be collected during the week of May 17-22 from a sample of households in this area. The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the Nation. The March survey indicated that of the 93.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 86.7 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.5 percent, compared to 7.6 percent in February, and substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 percent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

I SOLEMNLY SWEAR — Steve Hines (right) elected in a run-off Saturday, took his place Monday night on the city board of commissioners. Sworn in at the same time by city clerk Tom Plumlee were (left) H.R. Fulton and Mayor Manly Bryan, who were elected without opposition in April.

Sunday Canyon vote set

Residents and property-owners in Sunday Canyon, a development overlooking Palo Duro Canyon east of the city, will vote Saturday on whether to incorporate into a municipality.

Ballots listing four alternatives ranging from the status quo to full incorporation have been mailed to every property owner in the development and a vote of residents will be taken next weekend, Carl Johnson, member of a six-man committee, said Friday.

More than 80 property-owners are listed on the tax rolls for the development.

Johnson said the ballot asks property owners to vote for one of four propositions. The propositions call for:

*Formation of a property owners association to have a five-member central committee to help unify the Sunday Canyon landowners and residents in an effort to solve several problems.

*Formation of a municipality.

*Acceptance of an offer from Developer Marvin Standefer to turn over the development's water system to the landowners.

Johnson said the meeting Saturday will climax a series of meetings held over the past several months to try to grapple with problem areas perceived by residents of the Sunday Canyon area.

The number one problem, he said, is fire protection and prevention.

Johnson said much of the problem stems from trash removal and burning and the problem might be solved should residents be willing by establishing a dumpster system with a monthly residential charge.

Currently, a volunteer fire department is providing first-line fire protection for the development.

Another key problem, he said, is drive-through traffic, and one solution discussed has been the possibility of erecting a gate to restrict the flow of traffic in the area.

Another problem, he said, is dogs.

And another is the destruction of the natural environment and spread of litter in the community.

Johnson said he anticipates a good bit of discussion at the Saturday meeting not only over the alternatives for self-government, but also over the solution to the key problem areas.

He said it is possible that if the residents and property-owners vote to form either an association or a municipality, Standefer will turn over to the resulting organization the development's well water system, the fire engine, a small lake and a picnic and watersite at the bottom of the canyon.

Finances, he said, to provide improvements in the development could come from fees collected monthly for water and from new hook-up fees.

Johnson said about 13 families live full-time at the Sunday Canyon while about 27 cabins are occupied only on weekends or holidays.

Lundy award given senior

Sandra Skinner Oldham, a West Texas State University senior and former Miss WTSU, has recently received the Grace Mason Lundy Award.

This award is given annually to six women across the nation involved in Delta Zeta, national women's fraternity. The recipient is recognized for excellence in leadership, scholarship, and chapter involvement.

Mrs. Oldham is a member of Tau Beta Sigma Music Organization, and has served on the WTSU Student Senate. She was feature twirler, line twirler, and head twirler for the WT Band, has served on the Panhellenic Council as the Delta Zeta representative, and is a Sigma Phi Epsilon Golden Heart.

A WTSU Song Girl, Mrs. Oldham served as song leader, Delta Zeta president, and was named the top officer in Texas and top senior at the Delta Zeta State Convention.

Mrs. Oldham was the 1973-74 Miss WTSU.

A Spanish major, she is the daughter of Luther B. Skinner of 1512 Douglas, Iowa Park.

lar session.

The Monday meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Amarillo board room in the AISD administration building.

The tentative agreement hammered out by representatives of both boards calls for the Canyon board to agree to future transfers of lands west of the Canyon Expressway and north of Hollywood Road at the request of developers.

Developers will be expected to pay a fee to the CISD for loss of tax revenue under the agreement.

The Tuesday night session is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. at the local school administration building.

In addition to the announcement of the elementary school site, the board is expected to discuss other aspects of the May 25 bond election.

Preliminary drawings have been submitted by Architect B.R. Cantrell for an elementary school of about 41,000 square feet, and for remodelling and expansion at CHS.

Other items scheduled for discussion Tuesday night:

*The hearing of a House Committee on Public School Finance scheduled in Canyon on May 24.

*Amendment of the 1975-76 school district budget.

*Approval of an agreement to continue the school lunch program next year.

*Implementation schedules for improvements at Gene Howe and Rex Reeves elementary schools.

*Acceptance of the class gift from the seniors of '76 of CHS.

*Appointment of board members to dispense diplomas during graduation exercises.

Marriage vows read

The marriage rites for Miss Janet Janiece Burgess and Fred Robert Ortiz were confirmed in ceremonies Friday evening at the First Assembly of God Church in Canyon with Rev. A.J. Pettit, pastor, and Rev. Richard Dickerson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carol Edward Burgess of 4416 S.E. 28th, Amarillo and Mr. Con Ortiz of Sierra Vista, Arizona is the father of the bridegroom.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a white lace dress with satin lining featuring long lace sleeves and a short wedding train. Her lace mantilla styled wedding veil matched the wedding dress and she carried a bouquet of white roses on a white mother of pearl Bible which was a gift from her parents brought back from a recent trip to the Holy Land and Rome. The bride's wedding dress and veil were designed and made for the occasion by her mother.

The nuptial service featured a number of nuptial selections presented at the organ by Cassie Peppard with Frankie Buchanan as vocalist. Candlelighters were Jalane and Robbie Burgess, with Kason Huddleston serving as ringbearer and Kay Crowley serving as flower girl.

Bridal attendants included Cheryl Womack, Tamora Jillana and Lavanda Burgess. Best man was Gary Giles and groomsmen included Thomas Porter, Alfred Cross and Clois Burgess. Ushers were Jim Patterson and Joe Taylor.

A reception for the couple followed at the church. The bride changed to an orchid two piece full length dress with flowing sleeves for the wedding trip. The couple will honeymoon at the Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mexcalero, New Mexico before traveling through Arizona and points of Old Mexico.

Betrothal announced

Miss Jane Burch of Amarillo and Gary McBride will be announcing their plans for a July 2 wedding to be read at the Paramount Baptist Church of Amarillo during a tea party to be held this afternoon at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Kelli McBride, in Canyon.

Both Miss Burch and McBride are presently employed with Southwestern Public Service Company in Amarillo. The announcement tea party will be held at 2416 10 Avenue, Canyon.

Parents of the couple include Mr. and Mrs. Loy Burch of 1505 Woodland, Amarillo; Mrs. Kelli McBride of 2416 10th Avenue, Canyon and John P. McBride of 1226 S. Bryan, Amarillo.

Organist's musical program concludes year for WBC

Dr. Robert Beckley presented a musical program featuring the organ when the Woman's Book Club met Wednesday to close out their year in the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church. He has been playing the organ since the age of 14 and the keyboard of music is his hobby. He studied organ while at Baylor, and is a native of Beaumont.

The musical program by Dr. Beckley included "Chorale Prelude on 'A Mighty Fortess Is Our God' " . . . by Johann G. Walther; "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" and "Arioso in A" . . by J.S. Bach; and Two Early American Folk Hymns including "When I Read My Title Clear" . . arranged by Beckley, and "Come Thy Fount of Every Blessing;" "Basse et Dessus de Trompette" . . . by Louis Clerambault: "Chorale from 'Sleepers, Awake' " . . . by J.S. Bach; and two preludes on Chorale-Hymn Tunes . . . by Paul Manz including "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah;" "Chorale" . . . by Cesar Franck; "Trumpet Voluntary" . . . by Henry Purcell; and "Psalm 19" . . . by Bernedetto Marcello.

Following the musical program and a brief business discussion, the club members held a fellowship with refreshments being served 27 members and a number of guests.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Irby Carruth, Mrs. K.E. Frieze, Mrs. E.J. Larson and Mrs. Dan Sanders.

Needlework fills meet of city club

Priscilla Club members met last Wednesday with a dessert course, coffee and tea being served at the Lonnie Byars home.

The afternoon was spent in various forms of needlework by those present including Mesdames A.M. Cunningham, Tom Knighton, T.S. Stevenson, Sr., A.K. Goodman, Dudley Moore, Sr., M.J. Noel, Clay Cooper, Kelly McGeehee, Bailey McCormick, W.F. Haggard, Joe Gibson, Tom Brasher and J.M. Daugherty.

The club's annual summer luncheon will be held June 2 at the A.M. Cunningham home, 504 38th St., near St. Ann's Catholic Church. The luncheon will begin at the noon hour.

Wedding plans revealed

Miss Jan Derington and David Martin are planning marriage vows to be read at St. Andrew Presbyterian Church in Denton on August 21 and will be returning to Canyon for the fall semester to complete their degrees at West Texas State University, where both are students.

Miss Derington is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Derington of Denton. She is a graduate of Denton High School and is a junior physical education major at West Texas State University. She is a member of Chi Omega social sorority and Delta Psi Kappa, honorary physical education sorority.

Her fiance, David Martin, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Martin of Flomot, Texas. Scout troop sets garage sale, auction

Canyon Boy Scout Troop 31 will have a giant garage sale and auction beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday to raise funds for troop activities.

Scoutmaster Pat Hickman said several thousand items will be included in the garage sale at the J.O. Parker Memorial Building, and other items, many donated by local merchants, will be auctioned off during an afternoon bidding.

Furniture, bicycles and merchant-donated items will be included.

A CB radio will be given away during the day. It was donated by CB Center.

Hickman said donations for the garage sale will be accepted and will be picked up by the scouts. Those wishing to donate items should call the Canyon Answering Service at 655-9131. Items will be picked up Wednesday, Thursday or Friday.

Hickman said funds raised through the sale and auction will be used for a Ute Lake skiing trip later this month and for equipment and camping expenses for the scouts.

Bob Law, the father of one of the Troop's scouts, will be auctioneer.

Hickman said items donated to the sale are tax deductible and receipts will be given upon request.

Strength of the family is often unrecognized

The family has a tremendous potential for strength but too often, only the negative aspects are recognized, the state prevention coordinator for the Texas Commission on Alcoholism said at a drug and alcohol abuse workshop here Thursday.

"The people we are close to and most need love from are often the people we get the least from," said Joe Bailey.

But families can learn how to communicate and provide support for each other, he said.

To build families, Bailey suggested that members take a mental inventory of the strengths the family has. Such things as love, trust, and fun.

Then share that inventory with the others in the family, he said, concentrating on what's right rather than what's wrong.

The family is important in treating mental illness or alcoholism, he said.

"In order for an alcoholic to change, the persons around him need to take a look at their own personal responsibility," he said. "Every good alcoholic has his own personal persecutor or his personal martyr."

Bailey spoke in a seminar on developing family potential. Nineteen other seminars on alcohol and drug abuse were offered at the third annual Institute of Substance Abuse which was sponsored jointly by Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, WTSU, Texas Commission on Alcoholism and Texas Department of Community Affairs.

The keynote speaker was Don Newcombe, a former major league baseball pitcher who became an alcoholic. Now recovered, Newcombe lectures on alcoholism throughout the country.

St. Ann's Catholic Church sets dedication rite

St. Ann's Catholic Church in Canyon will have dedication rites at 6:30 p.m. today for the new educational and social center of the church according to Fr. Jack Gist, pastor.

Most Rev. Bishop Lawrence DeFalco will officiate in the blessing of the new building and a covered dish supper will conclude the evening.

In keeping with the contemporary architectural design of the Church and Rectory, the new Educational and Social Center is conveniently located in the center background and is visible from the main front through a partition of decorative cement block. Landscaping plans are currently underway for the new area.

The functional floor plan of the building includes a conference room, classrooms, kindergarten, nursery, kitchen and a large commons area.

The new Educational and Social Center for St. Ann's Catholic Church meets a long standing need of the parish family. The total project included time and resources for many parishioners.

An open house festivity for the general community is planned in the near future and the church hopes to make the facility available for non-parish groups use in the future.

Other plans for the new Parish Hall include a tea and reception for May 23 to honor five Canyon Sisters of St. Benedict from 3 to 5 p.m. The Sisters being honored here are Sister Charles Marie, Sister Noreen, Sister Mary and Sister Marcella.

Sister Charles Marie Foster (one of the five being honored) will be leaving soon for the Mother House in Fort Smith, Arkansas to begin work in the Formation Program. The Sisters and their work constitutes an important segment for the Parish population since the St. Benedict's formation occurred near Monte Cassino, Italy in the early Sixth Century. Sister Scholastica, the twin sister of St. Benedict, founded the Women's Branch of the Order which is founded on the structural organization of the "extended family." Over 6,000 Sisters across the country are devoted to the education and care of children, the sick and aged for their parishes.

A new buffalo rug decorates the West Texas State University office of Gene Parker, placement director, in the Administration Building. Framed by metal, the special rug was made with latch hook stitching by his wife, Peggy, and has been entered in the Tri-State Fair competitions for this fall. The original designed rug was patterned from Parker's belt buckle.

Women's council has installation

St. Ann's Women's Council met Wednesday evening for a salad supper honoring mothers and daughters held in the new Parish Education and Social Center.

The supper followed a celebration of Mass at the church and was concluded with recognition for new officers of the year with installation rites being conducted by Vickie Stoker.

New officers include: Isabel Garcia, president; Carmen Hernandez, vice president; Evelyn Jenkins, secretary; Jean Magee, treasurer; and Ellen Moscoe, reporter.

Appreciation was extended to outgoing officers for their year of service during the installation event.

Realistic western art displaying series

Solitary beauty found in the yucca plants of the Western Plains as well as the windmill silhouetted in a sunset or early morning sky are the specialized subjects for artwork by Lorita Montgomery, Canyon artist.

Mrs. Montgomery, who lives west of the city, will have a number of her artworks featured during May as a continuation of the art appreciation series being sponsored by First National Bank of Canyon. The exhibit will hang through May 26 with local patrons invited to view the display during regular banking hours this month.

The Southwestern art scenes of Mrs. Montgomery is an extension of her background having grown up in West Texas and on a New Mexico ranch. She started painting in oils at the age of 12 but did not paint professionally until two years ago to meet expenses while her husband was in graduate school.

During her early years, Lorita Montgomery took art lessons in oil painting and also took some early art education courses at New Mexico State University where she received her degree in general agriculture in 1966.

Her husband, Dr. Ted Montgomery, is an associate professor of animal science for West Texas State University and the couple has two daughters, Tanya, a kindergarten student, and Chandra, a second grade student at Rex Reeves Elementary School. The Montgomery family moved to Canyon last September.

Mrs. Montgomery paints in oils on old weathered board with the golden aspen as her favorite subject. Her works have been sold in shops and galleries throughout the southwest and at various starving artists shows. Since January 1976, Mrs. Montgomery has been painting in watercolors.

In her home studio, Lorita Montgomery, paints golden aspen, yucca and portrays the West on weathered boards. Her works will be displayed at First National Bank during May as a continuation of the art appreciation series being conducted there.

Do the costs of college seem never ending?

Then attend summer school at West Texas State University. It's a way to save time, money and trouble in a college education.

Six hours college credit in six weeks time can save 30 percent on tuition and fees and a lot of worry about finishing a degree on time.

And if a student goes more than one summer term, he may be able to graduate a semester early, and be ahead of his class on the job market. That can be important.

Save this summer by getting ahead. Don't delay. Write the WTSU registrar for the catalog and information now.

The 97th birthday cake for E.E. Plank, longtime Randall County resident, was lit with 97 candles and a central candle for a special occasion Friday afternoon as he celebrated his birthday with, from left, Isabel Cousins (Plank), Mrs. Plank, standing, and Mina and Lloyd Rinehart, household employees, and another long-time friend, C.A. Murray. Plank is the father of 6, has 17 grandchildren and 21 great grandchildren. He was born in Illinois, later moved to Missouri, and homesteaded in Oklahoma in 1900 spending the remainder of his life in the Texas Panhandle.

University campus enhanced through visiting area

Evergreens and various other foliage items have been planted in the recently completed Visitor's Center at West Texas State University as the completion of a current project for the Advisory Council on Campus Enhancement.

The project presently has required over $3,500 for purchase of plans, contract work for cement retainer walls, and the acquisition of a circular garden foyer.

The center is located midway between the new University Science Building and the former Science Building, now the Agriculture and Nursing Building, and can be viewed from Fourth Avenue (the Palo Duro Highway) on the southeastern corner of the campus.

University groundskeeper, Dwayne Wooton, was in charge of the planting of trees and shrubs for the project. Visitors from the community are welcomed to view the project anytime.

Funds for the project were accumulated through the Gatsby Gala held in 1974 and the Bicentennial Ball held during the fall of 1975. Plans are presently underway for a similar community-university project to be conducted this fall.

The Advisory Council on Campus Enhancement is currently led by Jane Munsell and Sandy Sparling, co-chairmen, with Mary Watkins, wife of the university president, Lloyd I. Watkins, as an advisory leader.

Previous leadership for the Advisory Council has been handled by Ann Asquith and Mary Watkins during 1974, with Peggy Smallwood and Dorothy Daugherty as immediate past directors for 1975-76.

Visiting the new center at West Texas State University are members of the Advisory Council on Campus Enhancement which has recently completed the outdoor visitors center project with $3,500 plus funds raised through the Gatsby Gala of '74 and the Bicentennial Ball of '75. From left are Peggy Smallwood and Mary Watkins, seated on the bench, with Sandy Sparling, Jane Munsell and Ann Asquith in the garden area beyond.

CHS bandsmen schedule concert

Canyon High School Band will present its annual Spring Concert Tuesday evening, May 18, 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Admission to the concert will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Included on the program will be "English Folk Song Suite," Barnum and Bailey's "Favorite March," "Chicago, a Portrait in Sound," "My Way," a popular selection, and a cornet trio, "The Three Trumpeters," featuring John King, Eric Rathjen, and Roma Johnson.

The high school Stage Band will be presented in "Wiggy," "Color My World," "Meet a Cheetah," and "Alto Soliloquy."

The Canyon High School Band has recently participated in the following contest and festival events: UIL Concert and Sight-reading, held at the Amarillo Civic Center, May 4, winning Division I in concert and sight-reading for a sweepstakes award.

The band also went to Six Flags over Georgia at Atlanta, Ga., winning Division I in concert playing.

The high school Stage Band also won Division I in the Stage Band Festival Division of Greater Southwest Music Festival.

Members of the band and their guests will be entertained Friday evening, May 14, at the annual band dinner party. The event will be held at the KA House, with the dinner beginning at 7 p.m. and the dance at 9 p.m. The program will include presentation of individual awards to members of the band and recognition of 3-year senior lettermen in the band.

C. C. Crow will be in charge of the music for the dance which the Canyon Band Parents Club will host. Mrs. Harlee Sallee is in charge of overall arrangements.

Paul Stoker is promoted

Paul M. Stoker has recently been promoted by Continental Fire and Casualty Insurance Company of Dallas and will serve as assistant superintendent of office services.

Stoker has been a systems analyst for the company since February 1975 and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W.M. (Fred) Stoker of Canyon.

He is a graduate of Canyon High School and West Texas State University and also served with the USArmy.

The Garden Spot

BY RICK WILCOX

One of the basic tenets of organic agriculture is the use of natural fertilizers. Basically, we're referring to mineral and vegetable matter and some animal products as "natural." Such fertilizers have several significant advantages to the home gardener.

(1) Natural fertilizers add organic matter to the soil. In so doing, they loosen the soil and help it retain air and moisture in the root zones of your plants. Both are essential to growth.

(2) Natural fertilizers of one kind or another are available to nearly everyone. Much of your household "garbage" can be used in the garden and converted by your vegetables back into nourishing food.

(3) Natural fertilizers are generally less potent than commercial ones and release their nutrients more slowly as they decay. Their contribution to your plants is therefore more gradual but steady so the plants are not alternately shocked into rapid growth and then starved.

(4) Natural fertilizers encourage rather than retard the growth of earthworms and beneficial soil micro-organisms. The coffee grounds you consider garbage are a steak dinner to an earthworm, and a gardener can have no better allies than bees and worms.

(5) Natural fertilizer are generally inexpensive.

Some of the more common but frequently overlooked types of natural fertilizers are household trash. Coffee grounds dried and sprinkled on the soil surface in the garden, as mentioned, are a feast for worms. Dug into the soil in heavier amounts, they increase soil acidity for those plants, such as blueberries and azaleas, that do poorly in our alkaline Panhandle clays.

Crushed egg shells add calcium, a mineral especially needed by tomatoes. Since they decompose slowly, they also help keep the soil structure open. Used as a mulch, their nutrients leach slowly into the ground, and they reflect light and heat to keep the root zone cool.

Vegetable trimmings from kitchen produce can be dug in, or added to the compost pile to break down quickly. Except for meat scraps and citrus peelings, almost any trimmings are okay.

Hair clippings — yours or your pet's — are high in nitrogen. Use lightly so they decay rather than mat.

Have an aquarium? Water from the tank is rich in nutrients, so use it on your plants instead of pouring it down the drain.

Manure, bone meal, blood meal, cotton seed meal, weeds, grass clippings, spoiled hay, straw, wood chips or saw dust, fireplace or barbecue ashes. The list of natural fertilizers is almost endless. Just use what you have or can lay hands on. With any of these fertilizers, most of them things our society discards by the megaton, you can recycle trash into food and prove you can get something for nothing.

Until next time. . . .

Young farmers meet Thursday

Canyon Young Farmers Association will be meeting Thursday evening, May 20, at the vocational agriculture building of Canyon High School.

The Young Farmers sponsored a display during the weekend's festival displaying a number of early farming equipment items and sold tickets for a shotgun during the event.

Eleven city students receiving AC degrees

Eleven students who earned their high school diplomas from Canyon High School will be receiving associate degrees and certificates during the commencement exercises of Amarillo College Monday, May 17.

The commencement ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the Civic Center Auditorium in Amarillo, with Dr. William E. Everheart, president of Drury College in Springfield, Mo., presenting the main address.

Dr. H.D. Yarbrough, AC vice president, will conduct the program and present the board of regents and Charles, D. Lutz, Jr., AC president, will present diplomas and confer degrees. A record number of 603 candidates are due to graduate.

Spring graduates with an associate in applied science degree from Canyon include Michael Bryant in diesel mechanics. Allan Carleton (an honor graduate) in air conditioning, Lonzo Davis in electronic technology and Ronald Huyck in mid-management.

Certificates in vocational nursing will go to Imogene Cowsert, Karen Shields and Sharon Stevens of Canyon who are spring graduates. Summer graduates receiving certificates in vocational nursing are Sue Boehning and Terri Watson of Canyon.

Associate science degrees will go to spring graduates Kathy Miller in elementary education and Joyce Smiley in pre-professional business with Phyllis Macmillan receiving an associate in arts degree in modern languages.

Tax notices sent out to tell of changes

More than 10,000 notices were mailed late last week to Canyon School District property owners notifying them of the recent increase in the ratio of assessment which will be used to compute their taxes next year.

Conway Kuykendall, tax assessor-collector, said the notices tell property-owners the ratio has been upped by the school board from 40 per cent to 80 per cent.

"This notice does not reflect an increase in the total value of your property," a flyer included in the mailing says. "It reflects a change in the ratio of assessment of the total value from 40 per cent to 80 per cent. The tax rate will be lowered to an amount that will furnish the necessary revenue to meet the school budget."

Board members voted recently to hike the ratio and to leave in suspension the tax rate for next year. Prior to the board's action the district collected taxes on 40 per cent of the market value of a piece of property and applied a rate of $1.95 per $100 to that ratio.

The board has said it will alter downward the rate to meet necessary budget expenses next year.

A budget increase of about 20 per cent is anticipated.

The notices mailed last week also inform taxpayers that the district's board of equalization will meet at 9 a.m. May 24 to hear testimony concerning the change in ratio.

The meeting will be at the school administration building.

Thief hits DeBord's

A service station was burglarized last Friday and $75 was taken from the vending machines and cash register.

The thief forced open a window at DeBords Texaco, according to police.

A burglary of a motor vehicle is also under investigation. Suzanne M. Blair reported that her CB radio valued at $145 was taken from her car sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Three persons were charged as being minors in possession of alcohol. Robert Wane Brantley, 17, and Charles Leo Raef Jr., 17, both of Amarillo, pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $27.50.

A 15-year-old girl with them was referred to juvenile authorities.

THERE'S A NEW contest underway for all those spring do-it-yourselfers who like to clean up, paint up and fix up around the homeplace. (I understand there will be some prizes and/or cash awards for those entering the contest with work judged to be an improvement).

Whether or not you're entered in the contest, or hoping to gain a prize — it's that time of year for folks to paint the shutters, caulk a mite, and do all those fix-up jobs at home.

A FAREWELL PARTY for Maj. and Mrs. Russell Moore was held Saturday night at the Country Barn. Rebecca was presented an engrave silver candy dish and Maj. Moore was given a branding iron plaque in appreciation from the WTSU military science department.

The Moores are moving to Ft. Leavenworth where he will attend Command and General Staff College. They have lived in Canyon for the past four years and during that time Mrs. Moore completed her bachelor's degree and will receive her masters degree at the May commencement.

On hand to say goodbye were LTC and Mrs. Charles Laakso, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Freidell, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Stringfellow, Capt. and Mrs. William T. Miller, Laurie Telfair, and Capt. and Mrs. Wes Cornett.

After dinner, a surprise birthday cake was presented to Mrs Cannon.

WHEN ROGER STEPHEN Remlinger was christened recently, he wore a handstitched christening dress that has been in the Remlinger family at least 60 years.

Roger was the 87th baby to wear the dress, which was made by Dr. Stephen Remlinger's grandmother. From Canyon, the frock was sent to California for another family christening.

Roger is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Remlinger.
